

How to Complete an LLP Application

1. Log into your housing contract on the StarRez Portal
2. Navigate to the Living Learning Programs page and add the community of your choice as a preference

Living Learning Communities

Living-Learning Communities (LLCs) are a great way to enhance your on-campus experience. In these communities, students with similar interests live together and participate in activities that cater to their academic, social and personal needs. Students in these communities also have the opportunity to interact more closely with faculty and university partners – many of whom even have offices in the residence hall. Joining a living learning community can make Virginia Tech feel a bit smaller, and gives you the opportunity to get to know a wide variety of people.

All of our LLCs have a specific focus – some are discipline specific, and others are interest based. Therefore, all students, regardless of major, identity, or background, are strongly encouraged to apply for a Living-Learning Community.

- Arts and Creativity (Studio 72)
- Culture and Identity (Ujima)
- Engineering (Galileo and Hypatia)
- Entrepreneurship (Innovate)
- Honors (Hillcrest and the Honors Residential Commons)
- Language and Global Learning (Mozaiko)
- Leadership and Social Change (Leadership and Social Change Residential College)
- Personal Growth (Thrive)
- Residential College at West Ambler Johnston
- Sciences (Orion)
- Transfer Students (Transfer Experience)
- University Studies (VIA)
- Well-being (Meraki)

You can preference up to 3 LLCs below and apply right now, or you can skip this section now if you'd like to come back to this section after learning more about living-learning communities. Don't delay, however, as spaces are offered on a first come, first-serve basis.

Thrive Application

Thrive Website

In the Thrive Living-Learning Community, students will leverage their strengths to create a truly personalized, one-of-a-kind Virginia Tech experience. In a uniquely interactive environment, students will determine what it means for them to thrive and will benefit from opportunities that support their unique vision for themselves. To help them be successful in their vision, the community encourages students to have real conversations about their future.

We expect all community members to use their unique strengths to contribute to the community. We ask all community members to attend Thrive weekly community gatherings on Tuesdays from 3:30-4:30pm.
